New Rs 10 notes to be circulated soon

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has come out with a new design chocolate brown ten rupee note. The new note will have the same height of 63mm as the current ten rupee note but the width will be 123mm - slightly lesser than the 137mm width of the existing note.

Besides the colour and the size, another main difference is that the reverse of the note will carry a motif of the Konark Sun Temple. The existing ten rupee note carries the image of fauna of India - rhinoceros, elephant and tiger.

The RBI said that it will shortly be putting out the new note into circulation bearing signature of governor Urjit Patel. The note has other designs, geometric patterns aligning with the overall colour scheme, both at the obverse and reverse.

Existing banknotes in the denomination of Rs 10 issued by the RBI in the earlier series will continue to be legal tender.

Plus Two exams to start from March 1

The State board Plus 2 exams will begin from March 1 and conclude on April 6. Exams will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 1.15 p.m. Students will get 10 minutes to read the question paper and additional five minutes to fill in their particulars in answer sheets, which will be issued at 10.10 a.m. Candidates who arrive for the examination after the first 15 minutes will not be admitted, according to a release from the Director of Government Examinations.

The exams will begin with language papers on March 1 and 2, followed by English language papers on March 5 and 6. There is a five-day break between subjects under the Part III category. These include Physics, Economics, Chemistry, Accountancy, Biology, Botany, History and Business Maths. There will also be a three-day break for the final exams - Communicative English, Indian culture, Computer Science, Biochemistry and Advanced Language (Tamil).

Anna Nagar Railway Station Awaits New Lease of Life

By Our Correspondent

Over 14 years after it was opened with much fanfare, the Anna Nagar Railway Station remains unused prompting residents to revive their long-pending demand to make the station operational at the earliest.

Originally, the 3.09 km railway line was used by the Integral Coach Factory (ICF) in Perambur for moving its new coaches but later the line was thrown up for use by passengers with the construction of new stations in Padi and Anna Nagar.

"I still remember it was inaugurated in 2003 by then Union Minister of State for Railways AK Moorthy. The station was extremely beneficial for thousands of people living in and around the Anna Nagar neighbourhood as they could alight here while arriving from certain destinations instead of going to Perambur," recalls Padmanabhan a long-time resident of the neighbourhood that has a good mix of posh bungalows, middle class apartments and artisan/ economically weaker section (EWS) plot homes.

However, in 2007 the station was removed from the railway map when it was closed due to ongoing works on construction of the Padi flyover. "It is now around eight years since the Padi flyover was inaugurated but the railway station has not reopened. The Southern Railway had spent several crore rupees to build the Padi and Anna Nagar Railway stations. All that has gone waste," says Chandramouli, a local resident.

Residents said that for about five years when the station was functional five suburban trains were operated from Anna Nagar to Chennai Beach/

Central via Villivakkam. "Now, Railway authorities are saying that there was poor patronage from the people to these services. They should actually reintroduce the service now and examine the patronage afresh because a lot has happened in the last 10 years such as increased traffic on roads and narrowing of roads. Therefore, I am sure people will now use the train service from Anna Nagar to Perambur and beyond instead of taking a bus or own mode of transport," argues Chandramouli.

Some of the residents are worried if the rail service would never be resumed on this sector. "I recently read somewhere that the authorities are planning to use this railway line as an exclusive testing facility for the Integral Coach Factory. I hope the authorities give up such plans and instead look at reviving this sector for rail traffic," says Padmanabhan.

Chennai book fair from Jan 10

With 5 lakh titles to choose from, the much-awaited 41st Chennai book fair is all set to kickstart on January 10 at St George Anglo-Indian higher secondary school.

The 13-day festival, which will draw ardent readers from all over the state, is organised by the Booksellers' and Publishers' Association of South India (Bapasi) would have 708 stalls, of which 234 stalls would sell English books.

This year the book fair will focus on children's books as it will help to spread the reading habit to the next generation. An awareness programme will be held for kids regarding this on Jan 8.

As many as 376 publishers, including 102 English publishers would take part in the fair.

The organisers said that entrance ticket would be sold at Rs 10. However, to encourage the school students to visit the fair, 5 lakh free tickets have been distributed to the schools.

Prominent writers of Tamil and English will be felicitated at the event. They have also arranged special oratory events on the sidelines of the book fair where eminent personalities and IAS officers will deliver their speech.

The book fair will be open to the public from 11 am to 9 pm on weekends and holidays and 2 pm to 9 pm on weekdays.

Tamil Nadu school education minister will inaugurate the fair on January 10.

Residents happy over inclusion of neighbourhood areas in Chennai District

By N Rathi Chithra

The decision of the State Government to expand the Chennai District by annexing 122 revenue villages in Tiruvallur and Kancheepuram districts to it has brought cheers to a cross-section of residents living in and around Mogappair and Ambattur. The revenue villages annexed to Chennai District include Ambattur and Maduravoyal.

Until now areas in and around Mogappair, Ambattur and Maduravoyal came under the Tiruvallur district. Incidentally though many of the areas in these three localities had already brought under the administration of the Greater Chennai Corporation in terms of Revenue Department's functions they came under the Tiruvallur Collectorate.

"So far we had to travel all the way to Tiruvallur district headquarters, which is located over 40 kilometres away, for settling any Revenue Department related disputes and it was a fatiguing experience. Now the Chennai Collectorate, the main appellate authority for us in case of non-issuances of any certificates or land records, is only about 15 kilometres. Therefore, this initiative of expand Chennai district by including areas located in the periphery of the main city is welcome and timely," said

Karmegam, a resident of Venkatapuram in Ambattur. Residents say that the Chennai Collectorate is better connected by transport from these areas unlike the Tiruvallur District Collectorate. "To go to Tiruvallur, we had to go to Koyambedu and take a bus or alternatively we had to go to Poonamallee and take a bus from there. The other route was to go to the Ambattur Railway Station and take a EMU train to Tiruvallur Railway Station and from there take another bus to the Collectorate which is another seven kilometres or so from there," pointed out Amudhavalli, a resident of Nerkundram.

In contrast, residents say that they can reach Chennai Collectorate by taking a bus to Broadway and from there take a connecting bus. "Even otherwise, we can simply choose to ride there on a two-wheeler in about an hour. Usually if we go to the Collectorate for any work, we would lose a whole day. Now I think if we take half-a-day's leave we can finish off our work and return to office. In that sense the Government has done a very wise thing by annexing our areas with the Chennai District," said Manivannan, a resident of Ambattur.

Incidentally the Government has decided to set up Chennai Central Zone with its headquarters in Ambattur and the areas that would come under it would include 47 revenue villages from areas as vast as Ayanavaram, Aminjikarai, Maduravoyal, Mambalam and Egmore Taluks.

SLEEPING LESS

Can lead to depressions

Are you in the habit sleeping less than eight hours a night? Beware, you may be at risk of suffering from depression and anxiety, according to a study. Regular sleep disruptions can increase the difficulty in shifting attention away from negative thoughts. While other people may be able to move on from their negative thoughts, people low on sleep can have trouble ignoring it. This means that inadequate sleep is part of what makes negative intrusive thoughts stick around and interfere with people's lives, the researchers said. It was found that people have some tendencies to have thoughts get stuck in their heads, and their elevated negative thinking makes it difficult for them to disengage with the negative stimuli that they were exposed to. These negative thoughts are believed to leave people vulnerable to different types of psychological disorders, such as anxiety or depression. For the study, published in a journal, the team assessed the timing and duration of sleep in individuals with moderate to high levels of repetitive negative thoughts (e.g., worry and rumination). The timing and duration of sleep may also contribute to the development or maintenance of psychological disorders, a finding that could potentially allow psychologists to treat anxiety and depression by shifting patients' sleep cycles to a healthier time or making it more likely a patient will sleep when they get in bed, the researchers said.

ANNA ARCH FLYOVER Turns into Dangerous Selfie Spot at Night

By N Rathi Chithra

The Anna Arch Flyover, which was inaugurated in March 2016, has turned into a dangerous selfie spot for some misguided youngsters and even a few families, especially late at night. The flyover connects traffic from the EVR Salai to the Arignar Anna Government Siddha Hospital.

While the infrastructure has helped reduce vehicular congestion that would otherwise be a common scene at the Anna Arch Junction, it has also turned into a random favourite spot for some compulsive selfie addicts. There have been stray cases of bikers or those driving a car stopping close to the point where the flyover branches out on the left hand side to connect to the other side of EVR Salai (from where buses go towards Chennai Central), to take a selfie with the Anna Arch in the background.

“Such instances happen closer to midnight or past midnight when traffic flow on the flyover is way too lesser. I have seen two or three cases of youngsters on motorcycles stopping their vehicles in a corner and pick out their mobile phones to take a selfie or groupie with the towering Anna Arch and the vehicular movement below the flyover as background. Clearly they seem to be unaware to the risks involved in the act,” says Vicky alias Vignesh, a software company executive, who regularly drives on the flyover around midnight to reach his house on Shanthi Colony in Anna

Nagar.

Motorists indulging in such acts not only risk their own life and limbs but also put fellow motorists in danger. “I haven’t come across too many cases because I don’t drive late in the night. I have heard from my friends who chill out at night that some motorists do stop there. But on one occasion when I was returning from a film show at night I saw a family on a car stopping by to take a selfie at this spot. There were children in the car and I was wondering what if a heavy vehicle rammed it from behind. As it is we know that many accidents occur when drivers ram their vehicles into stationary vehicles,” says Karthik, a resident of Fifth Avenue in Anna Nagar.

Locals say that it is not practical to post traffic policemen on top of the flyover as there is no place for them to stand. Therefore, only those taking such selfies must realise the danger involved and curb this urge to take photos at the cost of their own safety.
